WORKFLOW

General structure	The University of Calgary's Department of Radiology offers a one-year comprehensive fellowship in interventional radiology. The fellowship is based at the Foothills Medical Centre, the main tertiary care referral site for southern Alberta, southeastern British Columbia and southwestern Saskatchewan. The FMC has a large, diverse clinical caseload, is attached to the Tom Baker Cancer Centre and has an excellent infrastructure. Since only one interventional radiology fellowship is offered each year, the fellow has the opportunity to tailor his/her experience over the course of the year. Several CT guided procedures and CTA's are performed each day providing an enriched learning experience.
